

Before the Federal Communications Commission
Washington, D.C.

In the Matter of)
)
)
Creation of a Low)
Power Radio Service)	MM Docket No. 99-25
)
)	RM-9208
)	RM-9242

WRITTEN COMMENTS
OF NICKOLAUS E. LEGGETT
AND
ADDITIONAL WRITTEN COMMENTS OF
JOHN ANDERSON

The undersigned parties hereby file these Written Comments, in FCC Docket No. 99-25, to support displacement protection for both Low Power FM radio stations and Class D educational stations.

For decades, both of the undersigned parties have been actively involved with the promotion of radio broadcasting in general and Low Power Radio broadcasting in particular. Both of us remain actively involved with these endeavors.

Both of us were also involved, at the start of our adult lives, with active participation in Class D educational stations.

We can state, without reservation, that our experience with Class D educational stations made a crucial contribution to both our knowledge of radio broadcasting and our commitment to radio broadcasting.

We are already saddened that the FCC stopped licensing Class D educational stations in 1978. It would be an outright tragedy if the Commission passed on an opportunity, in 2005, to protect the handful of remaining Class D stations from displacement by new, upgraded or relocating full power stations. Two Class D stations, respectively located in Washington State and Pennsylvania, have recently fallen victim to such displacement.

Please do not deny current and future students, in America's high schools and colleges, the opportunities that were so important to us. Each of us is living proof of the difference that Class D educational stations can make.

Respectfully submitted,

Nickolaus E. Leggett N3NL

Co-Petitioner, FCC Dockets RM-9208, RM-5528 and RM-10330

Petitioner, FCC Docket RM-10402 Et Al.

1432 Northgate Square, #2A

Reston, Virginia 20190

John Anderson

President, DIYMEDIA

Candidate, Ph.D in Communications

University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana

282 Gregory Hall

810 South Wright Street

Urbana, Illinois 61801

Dated: August 13, 2005